Dermal Fillers: What do they do?

What is hyaluronic acid exactly?

We talk about it a lot, and with good reason – it's the basis for all of our dermal filler and cosmeceutical products. Hyaluronic acid (HA) is a unique substance found naturally in our bodies – specifically, in the structure of our skin. It helps keep your skin fresh and youthful looking. Over time our natural HA breaks down, contributing to the appearance of fine lines and wrinkles. Our unique formulas aim to mimic, as closely as possible, the naturally occurring HA in our bodies.

Our patented Resilient Hyaluronic Acid (RHA®) technology is the latest innovation within our product portfolio. It was developed to mimic the characteristics of the natural hyaluronic acid within our skin, we call this dynamic aesthetics. RHA® technology is designed to work in synchronisation with your facial expressions to provide a natural looking result whilst remaining undetectable.

What are Dermal Fillers?

TEOXANE dermal fillers are hyaluronic acid based injectable treatments, that are designed to reduce the appearance of lines and wrinkles as we age. Additionally, dermal fillers can help to enhance, contour or restore lost volume to specific features or areas of your face. Hyaluronic acid is also world-renowned for hydration of the skin.

What can Dermal Fillers be used for?

Dermal fillers can be used to treat a variety of areas and concerns, including reducing the appearance of lines and wrinkles, enhancing or defining features of the face such as the lips, cheeks, chin or jaw. Dermal fillers are also used to restore volume to areas of hollowing, such as the temples.

How do Dermal Fillers work?

Dermal fillers are injectable gels that are designed to diminish the appearance of lines and wrinkles, replace lost volume or restore a more youthful appearance. TEOXANE's selection of hyaluronic acid solutions are intentionally crafted to offer individualised treatment results. The hyaluronic acid, chosen for you will depend entirely on your specific needs and ideal outcomes.

Do Dermal Filler treatments hurt?

Most dermal filler products today contain a mild anaesthetic called lidocaine, which has been added to the dermal fillers to minimize any discomfort during the treatment. Some practitioners may also apply numbing cream to the area being injected, to ensure the treatment is as comfortable as possible

...intentionally crafted to offer individualised treatment results.

How long do the treatments last?

Most hyaluronic acid dermal fillers are a non-permanent treatment and their longevity will depend largely on the type of product used, the area treated and other external factors such as diet and lifestyle. Typically, TEOXANE dermal filler treatments last between 9-18 months*. For long term skin health TEOXANE have a specific Cosmeceutical Range for an at-home skincare solution.

Will the results look unnatural?

Your results will entirely depend on the outcome you desire, however, there's no need for your dermal filler treatments to look unnatural.

The Teosyal RHA® range of dermal fillers are uniquely manufactured to recoil and spring back to their original shape when subject to facial dynamics or compressions. This sounds scientific, but this resilient behaviour provides a natural looking result, as the product is able to move and stretch as your face naturally moves and expresses.

Your treatment your choice...

TEOXANE believe that when it comes to dermal filler treatments, one size, solution or product does not fit all needs. Everyone's facial features and beauty ideals are unique, and this can be down to a number of factors such as your age, gender, ethnicity and genetics, all of which play a part in making you, you.

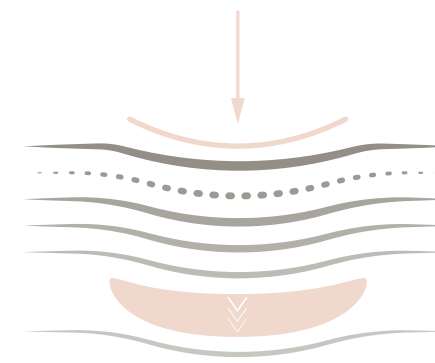

That's why TEOXANE have intentionally developed a range of injectable products that are designed to offer the most natural looking outcomes, tailored to your needs.

What are RHA® fillers?

TEOSYAL RHA® is the first hyaluronic acid filler specifically designed to respect facial dynamics, with a unique and innovative technology developed to mimic the natural hyaluronic acid within our skin.

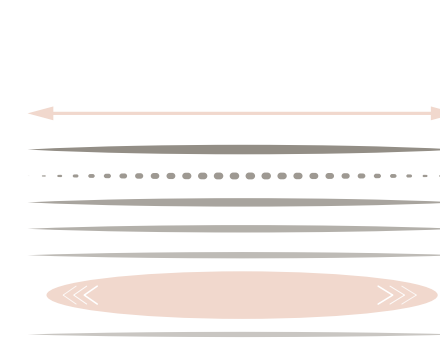

This technology is designed to allow our gels to work in synchronisation with your facial expressions and provide a natural looking result, whilst remaining undetectable.

It's strong

The gel will resist against external and internal pressures.

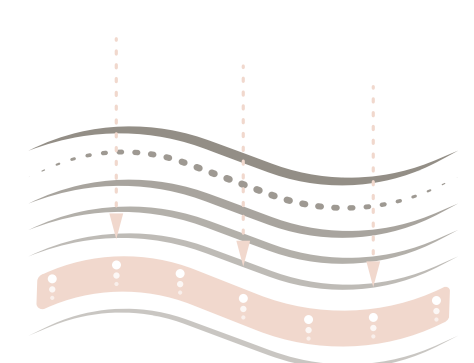

This means the product can offer optimal enhancement and volume where you need it, due to its unique properties.

It stretches

The gel has the ability to morph, stretch and reform to its initial shape.

This allows the face to move and express in a natural and organic way, without restriction.

It adapts

RHA® dermal fillers have the ability to follow facial movements and seamlessly integrate into the layer of skin in which they are injected.

Allowing continued precious expressiveness that makes you, you.

They're called RHA®, Resilient Hyaluronic Acid for their unique ability to adapt to facial movements.<sup>2</sup>
